Final instructions were issued to canvassers on Sunday by Campaign Chairman Fred Guerard along with a supply of necessary forms and badges with which to sign up as many Coleman wage earners as possible.

A number of volunteer canvassers have come forward and offered their services. They have been allotted certain districts and are now busy on the job.

Among the supplies distributed are window cards which are given to citizens pledging themselves to war certificates. These cards must be placed in the windows. Canvassers will be on the job for the duration and by having the cards in the windows the canvassers know that the occupants of the house are still pledged, and will not again solicit the house.

"Thumbs Up" badges are being given to all pledgers.

Premier Aberhart Replies to Ratepayers' Recommendation

States Amendment To School Act At Next Session To Clarify Act In Respect To Saluting Flag

At the annual ratepayers meeting a recommendation was authorized to be sent to Premier William Aberhart, minister of education regarding the attitude of the ratepayers of Coleman to children refusing to salute the British flag in the schools.

A reply was received from Premier Aberhart on Monday morning and reads:

Edmonton, February 14th, 1941.

I have your letter of the 13th instant and note the attitude of your annual ratepayers meeting regarding the saluting of the flag by school pupils.

An amendment to the School Act is proposed to be presented to the Legislature for enactment which will clarify the Act in this respect. I trust this will meet with the approval of those in attendance at the meeting referred to.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM ABERHART
Premier.

Sunday Bonspiel For Pontiac-Studebaker-Cole Trophies?

Many Curlers in Favor of Sunday 'Spiel'; Will Be Held At Bellevue Arena.

This year, for the first time in the history of the Pontiac-Studebaker-Cole bonspiel, the 'spiel' may be played on a Sunday. Pressure is being brought to bear upon the Bellevue executive at whose arena the 'spiel' will be played, to have the competitions played on a Sunday.

It is argued that many will enter the 'spiel' who would not otherwise take part. This is because no loss of work will result. It is possible that both Bellevue and Blairmore curling sheets might be brought into play if a heavy entry is received. As a result many draws could be played off the first day and other draws could be scheduled for certain evenings during the week.

Local curling officials state that sixteen entries could be expected by Bellevue officials if they agree to the Sunday bonspiel. A conversation with a Bellevue official reveals that Bellevue is in favor and all that remains is to get Blairmore's consent to the suggestion. If Blairmore agrees the bonspiel is expected to get underway on Sunday, March 2.

FLIGHT-LIEUTENANT POSS BOULTON FRACTURES ARM IN HOCKEY GAME

Flight-Lieutenant Poss Boulton suffered serious injury while taking part in a hockey game at Calgary last week. It is unknown how the accident happened but his arm was fractured in two places. He was taken to the Belcher hospital for attention.

Miss Lorraine Rippon, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce staff at Lethbridge, was home here for the week-end.

Blairmore's New School Building Burned to Ground This Morning; Partially Insured

Two Private Dwellings Also Destroyed; Damage Estimated at $40,000; Cause of Outbreak Unknown

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed Blairmore's new school building at 6.30 this morning. Two other homes were also destroyed. In addition to the building, equipment recently placed in the school was also lost. Mrs. Bouthillier who had resided alongside the school lost both her home and furnishings. The second home was owned by Mike Rosse and had been occupied by a Mr. and Mrs.

Lewis. They were able to save their belongings. Estimated damage according to one Blairmore source is reckoned to be $40,000.

The loss of the new school is a big blow to Blairmore taxpayers. The building was still incomplete, only one room, that for manual training, being in use. The building was only partially insured. It is reported $35,000 had already been spent on its construction. The equipment itself for manual training and Household Economics cost well over a thousand dollars.

FRANCIS MARCONI NOW IN ENGLAND

Francis "Frenchy" Marconi is now in England according to latest word received here by his parents. He enlisted last summer and after a couple of days in Calgary was sent to Ottawa, where he was stationed until his transfer to Britain. He failed to get one leave at home. He is in the Royal Army Medical Corps. In his letter he remarked on the huge size of the liners plying between Canada and Britain. It was the first time in his life that he had seen an ocean liner.

Robert Jenkins and Joe Gate, two other men who enlisted the same day as Marconi, have been in Britain since December 26, and are now taking their places in defending Britain's shores.

Curling Club Makes Drive For New Members For 1941-42

Endeavor to Have Strong Club for 1941-42 Season; Plan On Holding C.N.P. Bonspiel Here Next Year.

President Andrew Dow and his executive are now engaged in securing members to fill at least thirteen rinks for the 1941-42 season. Thirteen men have been named as skips and include Jim Kerr, A. Dow, W. Hoggan, E. Leier, J. Lipovski, A. Gentile, W. Antel, H. Boulton, W. L. Rippon, A. Destobel, H. Claes, H. Houghton and R. Gillies.

Each of these men will endeavor to secure three other men to form their rinks. Receipt books have been given them and they will be responsible for collecting the fees during the summer and fall months.

By paying 25c or 50c per pay or month each curler will practically have his dues paid in full by the time the next curling season rolls around. By having their dues paid in full it gives each member added inducement to get out and curl and so get their money's worth of sport.

Coleman was awarded the 1941-42 bonspiel and only by having a strong home club can the local executive hope to successfully sponsor the event.

Boulton's Rink Won West Canadian Collieries Trophy

Win Against Lance Morgan in Semi-Finals; Defeat Bill Kerr in Finals; Play Both Games With Three Men.

Harry Boulton's rink brought Coleman its second major cup on Friday evening from the recent Crows Nest Pass curling bonspiel held some weeks ago at Blairmore, one event of which was postponed because of mild weather. The Boulton rink defeated Morgan, of Blairmore, in the semi-final, and the Bill Kerr rink, of Bellevue, in the final to win the West Canadian Collieries trophy. Jim Kerr had previously won the Lethbridge Brewery competition.

In the semi-final event the Coleman rink had to play with three men, A. A. Pruett, an original member of the team, having left Coleman. Harold Houghton played lead and second throwing four rocks. Kerr, Lipovski played third and Harry Boulton skipped. The score was tied 9-9 at the twelfth end, Boulton winning out in the extra end.

On Friday evening the three local curlers tackled the veteran Bill Kerr rink and played a brilliant game. Four times the game was tied and at the twelfth end the score read the same as the previous night's, 9-9. Bill Kerr had the last rock and took careful aim to try and knock out Boulton's shot rock which was lying in the clear. He threw his rock a little wide of the broom, missing Boulton's shot by inches to give the local curlers victory.

The winners were awarded handsome travelling cases. Jim Kerr's rink having lost to Bill Kerr's rink in the semi-finals was awarded the fourth prize, butter dishes designed as curling rocks.

GAMING HOUSE IN DUTKA BLOCK AGAIN RAIDED

Saturday evening Constable Antle, Town Foreman John Nikituk and some members of the R.C.M.P. raided a confectionery store in the Dutka Block, located on east main street. Seven front-entrances were arrested and also Sam Chow. Eleven chairs and two tables were seized along with approximately $15.00 which was lying on one of the chairs. Chow appeared before Fred Antrobus, J.P. on Monday morning charged with "unlawfully behaving as master of a common gaming house." Upon hearing the evidence magistrate Antrobus fined Chow $25.00 and costs or in default 30 days in Lethbridge jail. Sam Bannan, barrister, aided in the prosecution for the Town of Coleman. This is the second time this place has been raided within the past two months.

Equitability Of Sacrifice

Never in Canadian history have the people of this country been so united in the prosecution of a national objective as they are at the present time in their determination to bend all their resources to the winning of the current war; never before have they been so willing to make great sacrifices in a common cause as they are at the present time.

When the issues at stake in this conflict between the democracies and totalitarians are given the fullest consideration and their due weight, the desirability, may more than that, the utmost necessity, for complete accord and unity from the Atlantic to the Pacific, is apparent if our heritage of liberty and freedom is to be conserved.

The force of the Canadian war effort is going to be determined by the extent to which the present high morale of the people is maintained. The maintenance of a high degree of morale, so essential to give full effect to the blows we deliver at the enemy, will be decided by the extent to which we are prepared to make sacrifices and the extent to which we are willing to equalize the burden of these sacrifices as between the east and the west, as between the producer and the consumer, as between one industry and another.

Apart from the contribution of man power to the armed forces for services overseas on a voluntary basis and for home defence as a compulsory measure, the Canadian war effort is confined to the provision of the sinews of warfare in the form of fighting craft, arms and munitions and foodstuffs to maintain British and our own fighting forces and their civilian populations.

Our Special Contribution

For various reasons which need not be entered into here but which are well known, the task of creating fighting craft and the manufacture of munitions and arms is of necessity largely confined to the industrial east and in a lesser degree to British Columbia. The war products which are being turned out in the factories and workshops and shipyards of eastern Canada are required for immediate use. Hence they are immediately convertible into cash which has already brought and is continuing to bring to the east a high degree of prosperity and an increasing purchasing power to the people of the east.

For various reasons, and equally well known, the war task of the prairie provinces is confined to the provision of foodstuffs for the fighting men and the civilian populations. For much of this Western agricultural produce, and particularly wheat, there is no immediate export demand and may not be for some considerable time. Hence, the prairie provinces, while making great sacrifices in the national effort are not only not sharing in the prosperity which the east enjoys, but are sustaining losses occasioned by continued production of commodities, much of which must be stored for future use and for some of which there is only a limited demand in a restricted area and of doing so in the face of rising costs of production.

Disparity Increasing

The situation was fairly summarized in a brief recently submitted to the federal government by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture in the following words:

"Victory cannot be achieved without sacrifices. All classes of our people will be called upon to make sacrifices and the agricultural industry is ready and willing to bear its full share of the heavy load which Canada has shouldered. It is vital, from consideration of national unity, that no one class shall be called upon to carry an undue share of the burden and that there should be equality of sacrifice by all classes.

"As the tempo of industrial production is speeded up to meet the urgent need for munitions and war supplies, there is a grave danger that the present disparity between agricultural and industrial income will increase. More than three million Canadians now live on farms and engage in the production of food supplies. Another two million live in rural areas directly dependent on the farm income for their livelihood. But, while there has been a tremendous rise in the national income, agriculture's share of the national income continues to decline, in the face of steadily increasing cost of production."

The brief refers to the necessity of continued agricultural production as an important factor in winning the war and to supply the needs of hungry countries after the war and points out the need, if agriculture is to continue to play its full share in this effort, of the following two policies:

- "1. There must be an immediate and substantial increase of farm income in relation to the national income; and
- "2. A properly co-ordinated national policy for agriculture, including marketing as well as production, must be instituted."

A United Voice

Perhaps never in the history of the country has Canadian agriculture been so united in its representations for removal of inequalities as evidenced in the brief of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, which speaks for co-operative and producer organizations of every province of the Dominion, including British Columbia and the Maritimes.

Equalization of the burden of war sacrifices as between all the entities which make up the nation is not an unreasonable request and when agriculture speaks with such unanimous voice, as it has now done, it would appear that in the interests of continued national unity, if for no other reason, that the general principles in the brief, if not all the specific requests, will be given due weight by the government and particularly by the industrial east. The measure which the industrial east is willing to accord to agriculture's suggestions will largely determine the extent to which the government can go in a request for a more equitable distribution of the sacrifices occasioned by the war.

British Chemists Discover New Method Of Making Gasoline Substitute

The London Daily Mail said that three British chemists have discovered a new and better method of making methane, a substitute for gasoline, from coal gas.

The Mail said it was long known that methane is present in coal gas, but the new production method is known only to British. The processes and other details are a closely-guarded secret, the newspaper said.

In A Difficult Position

Elre's Present Attitude Will Mean Loss Of Self-Respect

Without British trade in peacetime Elre could not survive; without British protection today she would be as vulnerable to attack as Denmark; and, in the event of a German invasion by sea or air, without British aid she would be doomed in a week. Mr. de Valera knows all this as well as anyone, and no one could take the slightest objection to his stand had he not, with the utmost care, concealed the above facts for domestic reasons. Add to this the hypocritical pretence that this is a war to whose issues Elre is indifferent, and the incontestable fact that her neutrality is helpful to Germany, and it is plain that, however Elre may solve her present dilemma, she will find it difficult to salvage her self-respect.—Belfast Telegraph.

British Cruiser Forfar

Has Now Been Identified As The C.P.K. Lined Montrose

The armed British merchant cruiser Forfar which the British admiralty announced had been torpedoed and sunk last December was identified by New York marine circles as the 16,403-ton Canadian Pacific passenger liner Montrose.

In announcing the loss of the Forfar the admiralty had withheld her tonnage or her former name.

Marine circles disclosing her identity said there had been a heavy loss of life when the liner plunged to the bottom of the North Atlantic.

The Montrose, which ran regularly between Canada and Great Britain before the war, was based in Glasgow in 1922. She was 545 feet long and was placed under command of Capt. N. A. C. Hardy after her conversion into an armed cruiser.

Pensioners Help War Cause

Contributions, Great And Small, Coming From Many Quarters

Nine more veterans of the Great War have added their names to the growing list of pensioners making monthly free-will contributions to Canada's War Fund. The contributions range from $5.00 to $37.50 per month. One pensioner, resident in Toledo, Ohio, returns his total pension received since August 1940.

Students in schools, small communities, societies and clubs all join in offering to the war fund. An Indian, away in North West Territory, sends $10. From Almirante, Panama, come $500 in American funds. Instead of making Christmas gifts, pupils in Room 28, Herchermer school, Regina, forward $2.25. Three doctors send fees from medical examinations. A resident of Dugald, Manitoba, contributes a five dollar gold piece, gift of a golden wedding anniversary. A schoolboy in Great Falls, Manitoba, gives a dollar won at school for reciting. An anonymous gift of $3,000 represents "profits made by a company."

Wellwishers across the Dominion and scattered over the United States add their contributions.

Various Colored Yashmaks Will Be Used In London Shelters

London stores are featuring yashmaks—yes, yashmaks. Yashmaks, as old as the reticence of Mohammedan women to show their faces in public, have been beautified and are being made in various colors. Yellow, pink and green have top billing.

Ald. Charles Key, chairman of London air-raid shelters, said 90,000 of the veils now are ready for shelter use. They are primarily designed to snuff sneezes and prevent infection.

Fashion designers say they'll be popular. If a girl has nice eyes the veils will add "allure," they said, and on the other hand if her face is not so nice, a yashmak will help.

The veils are designed to fit over the nose and are tied at the back of the head.

Nazi Balkan Move Expected To Produce A Difficult Situation

London. Qualified sources disclosed that Bulgaria has refused to give Britain any assurance that it will not facilitate German penetration of the Balkans.

Britain asked for such a promise, it was said, through her minister, George Rendel, who approached Premier Bogdan Philoff several weeks ago.

Mr. Rendel specifically was reported to have asked Philoff to promise that his country would not do anything likely to aid the Nazis in their drive eastward.

Premier Philoff was said to have replied that much as he would like to accede to Britain's request, he was unable to do so.

Germans disguised as tourists are known to have been filtering into Bulgaria and, it is understood, control all major airports in that country.

Diplomatic observers here point out that Germany's principal aim, in preparing her drive to the East, is to strike at two strategic points—Salonica and the Bosphorus.

Possession of these would facilitate Nazi attacks on British shipping in the eastern Mediterranean by air or U-boat brought down the Danube to the Black sea. Moreover, air bases thus acquired would aid in the attack on the Dardanelles in conjunction with the army, and the bombing of Palestine, Trans-Jordan and Suez.

Hitler apparently is waiting only for the disappearance of the Danube's ice-cakes to span the river with pontoons for moving his army across Bulgaria from Rumania. Meantime he is reported seeking permission of Yugoslavia to use that country as a corridor for passing troops eastward as well as acquiescence in establishing a base in Bulgaria.

Germany's Balkan moves would produce a difficult situation for Turkey which is said to be determined to abide by its agreement with Britain. Ankara cannot remain indifferent to German occupation of Bulgaria and a Nazi attack on Salonika would affect Turkey's "vital interests." If these should be accomplished Turkey would be faced with a German demand for "temporary" control of the Straits.

To Appoint Motor Vehicle Controller To Safeguard Production

Ottawa.—Finance Minister Ilsley announced the government will shortly appoint a motor vehicles controller to safeguard war production against civilian demands for automobiles.

The minister also announced that the total prohibition against importation of new passenger cars, imposed in the War Conservation Act last December, will be lifted and a limited number of imports allowed on a quota basis.

It now was apparent, however, that this prohibition, in addition to creating hardships, has led some companies to consider setting up manufacturing facilities in Canada "at a time when machine tools and labor are extremely scarce."

The quota for the quarter ending March 31 next will be 20 per cent. of the value of cars imported on the average for the same quarters in 1938, 1939 and 1940.

Firms not producing cars in Canada prior to Dec. 2, 1940, will not be permitted to produce more cars than they could obtain under import quota.

In a prepared statement the minister said a motor vehicle controller would be named "shortly." It was assumed permits for importing cars would be available immediately but this was not indicated pending the

U.S. Destroyers

Auxiliary Naval Vessels May Be Potential Source Of Aid To Britain

Washington.—The destroyer dispute between Navy Secretary Frank Knox and Wendell L. Wilkie led some informed persons to mention the pool of 45 recently converted auxiliary naval vessels as a potential source of further aid to Britain.

Prior to their conversion, these auxiliaries were destroyers of the same type as the 50 already traded Britain, but now, it was pointed out, the ships technically are no longer destroyers and hence are not counted as part of the fleet's destroyer strength of 160.

Knox's statement that no more destroyers could be spared "without depleting our fleet" did not, strictly speaking, apply to auxiliaries, these sources noted.

The navy secretary made the statement in an indirect reply to Wilkie's plea that from five to 10 American destroyers be sent to Britain each month to meet her "desperate need."

Wilkie, in New York, retorted at once that "high authorities" at the administration had told him that "we are in a position, without any injury to our navy or national defence, to give Great Britain immediate effective assistance by furnishing her additional destroyers."

Pilots Like New Fighter

U.S. Tomahawks Make 330 Miles An Hour At 15,000 Feet

Somewhere in England—in a 10-minute mock air duel, a Curtiss Tomahawk fighter, out-manoeuvred and outsped a British Hurricane over this production station where the United States-made Tomahawks and Mohawks are assembled for the Royal Air Force.

The Tomahawk pilot said the ship was "a dream to fly." He said he put it through the battle with only 10 minutes of rehearsal. Tomahawks have a speed of 330 miles an hour at 15,000 feet.

London.—The Royal Life Saving Society announced that Princess Elizabeth was the first candidate to pass the examination for the society's wartime junior artificial respiration award.

Will Resume Mail Service

Ottawa.—Mail service from Canada to Greenland will be resumed shortly after temporary suspension due to lack of steamship facilities, the postmaster-general's department announced.

Italian Rout

Electric Whiskers Blames General Tellera For Defeat

Cairo.—General Annibale (Electric Whiskers) Bergonzoli, captured by British troops in the sand dunes of Libya, laid responsibility for the final Italian rout at Bengasi on Gen. Tellera, commander of the 10th army who died of wounds suffered fighting south of that fallen port.

Gen. Bergonzoli said he had advised the immediate evacuation of Bengasi when straggling Italian troops arrived there from Derna, but Gen. Tellera believed there was adequate time to retreat and decided to wait another 24 hours.

The British and Australian troops struck at Bengasi from the north and also trapped Italians attempting to flee to the southwest.

Gen. Tellera was wounded fatally when an Italian anti-tank gun backfired, Bergonzoli said.

Gen. Bergonzoli also told of his escape from Bardia.

With 25 staff officers he said he walked for five nights in the retreat, sleeping by day in hideouts afforded by wadis (dried river beds) and obtaining food from Bedouin tribesmen.

After reaching Tobruk he got out of there by airplane to Derna. From there he said he retreated with the last Italian contingent before the British forces entered.

He was among the Italians streaming out of Bengasi toward Tripoli when captured.

Military Training Period

Is Now Tentatively Set For March 20 As The Earliest Feasible Date

Ottawa.—Defence headquarters said March 20 has been chosen as the "earliest feasible date" for opening of the fourth compulsory military training period under the National Resources Mobilization Act, first period of four months' duration.

Previously, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said March 15 would be the opening date, but department officials emphasized the "big job" preparing for the revised training program schedule prevented an earlier opening.

A spokesman at national defence headquarters said a proclamation announcing complete details of the forthcoming training period will be issued shortly.

Extension of the compulsory training period from 30 days to four months was announced by Mr. King Feb. 3.

Expansion Planned

Addition Will Be Made To Armament Plant In Toronto

Ottawa.—Construction work on a $5,000,000 expansion project at the Inglis company's armaments plant in Toronto will get underway April 1, a munitions and supply department spokesman said. Munitions Minister Howe announced the plans for the addition recently.

The additions to the plant are being financed by the crown.

Some $800,000 is to be spent to further the plant's Bren gun production program and something over $4,000,000 will go into plant expansion directed at stepped-up output of anti-tank guns.

Enemy Plane Losses

Cairo.—More than 1,000 Axis planes have been shot down and destroyed in Africa since the war began, authoritative British sources said. This includes 86 planes found abandoned on the Bengasi airfield of Benina—all rendered useless by British air attack.

RAFFLE F.D.R.'S FEDORA

President Roosevelt has given away the battered gray fedora which he wore for good luck—during his three presidential campaigns. Movie Actor Jean Hersholt got it—to raffish off for the benefit of the motion picture relief fund in Los Angeles next month.

A Real Westerner

Well-known Surveyor Dies In A Toronto Hospital

Toronto.—Lauchlin Alexander Hamilton, 89, internationally-known surveyor and last surviving member of the original Vancouver city council, died in hospital after a lengthy illness.

Hamilton was one of the men credited with the growth of the west as general land commissioner of the Canadian Pacific Railway, for whom he supervised selection of the 23,000,000 acres of land granted the company by the government.

He laid out the townsite of Vancouver, then Granville, 56 years ago and in 1938 was made a freeman of the city, an honor previously accorded only to Sir Percy Vincent when he was lord mayor of London, and Sir Edward Beatty.

He surveyed the forest that was to be cleared and where Vancouver was to rise and laid out the city's street system. He was Vancouver's senior alderman for many years before moving to Winnipeg, where he took an active part in public life.

He was one of the founders of the Manitoba club and a president of the Winnipeg Rugby Football Club.

Build Airports

In Alberta And British Columbia To Link Up Alaska

Ottawa.—A chain of strategic airports, forming parts of Canada's general defence plans, will be set up by the Dominion government in Alberta and British Columbia to link up with existing facilities in Alaska, Air Minister Power announced.

The program, which the minister said was a purely Canadian undertaking, will involve an outlay of approximately $9,000,000 with two-thirds of the expenditure devoted to works within the interior of the two provinces and the remainder on Pacific coast bases.

At the same time, Maj. Power disclosed that altogether $20,000,000 would be expended this year on new projects and improvements of home defence bases for the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Supplies Are Low

London.—A study of recent Italian economic measures reveals a picture of "dwindling supplies and rising prices," the British Broadcasting Corporation reported. No source was given for the report.

Thrust In Balkans May Be Timed With Nazi Invasion Plans

London.—Belief of a possibility of a world-wide conflagration involving an attempted German invasion of Britain timed with thrusts at Suez and Gibraltar and a Japanese thrust at Singapore increased among diplomatic and military authorities here.

Possible invasion of this island remains the No. 1 consideration of a plan of grandiose proportion to seize at one swoop three of the world's most strategic positions—Gibraltar, Suez and Singapore—while the German army and air force try to break Britain.

Despite continuous and growing alarms in the Balkans and tension in the Far East, Britons remember well that all surface signs pointed to a Nazi thrust toward southeast Europe just before Hitler launched his overpowering drive into Norway and through the Lowlands and France last April and May.

The gradual tightening of British censorship is viewed by foreign observers as one sign that Britons are not allowing the present clamor in the Balkans to divert their attention from the perils of an invasion of the British Isles.

Not since Nazi bombers hammered Coventry and submarines ranged the North Atlantic last fall had it been so difficult to assess for publication—the British Empire's position.

Other indications that Britain expects to face "trouble" are the army's renewed interest in invasion

"problems," the swift conversion of United States-built fighting planes from the packing case to the firing line, and repeated warnings from statesmen and soldiers.

The public has been told by Prime Minister Churchill of the gas threat. There is a general feeling that the Germans will use gas, but perhaps only against military objectives such as airbases and coastal fortifications.

The first German blows are expected from the air, with attacks on airbases by parachute troops and gas in an attempt to immobilize Royal Air Force fighters and bombers. At the same time Junkers troop-carrying aircraft, each with 20 fully equipped infantrymen, may try pancake landing near airbases and vital communications centres.

The Germans are expected to use these methods to prevent the British command from rushing up reinforcements to counter-attack any German landing parties which reach the beaches.

At the same time British authorities expect non-stop bombing of the immediate areas selected for the first landings.

It seems generally agreed in responsible quarters that the German plan is to synchronize with this blow at Britain a drive at the Suez through Turkey, after consolidation of the position in Bulgaria, and an attack on Gibraltar, possibly through Spain.

The Answer Is No

War In Pacific Would Not Affect U.S. Aid To Britain

Washington.—President Roosevelt said that if the United States were forced into war in the Pacific it would not have to curtail deliveries of war supplies to Britain.

He said also he thought there was no danger of getting into such a war. A reporter at the president's press conference asked this question:

"If the United States should happen to get into war in the Far East, would that affect our deliveries to Britain?"

Describing the inquiry as "awfully silly," Mr. Roosevelt said there still was no reason why he should not answer it. It is perfectly obvious, he asserted, that the answer is no, that it would not affect the deliveries.

Disorders In Holland

Amsterdam (Via Berlin).—The official press agency reported police were inquiring into disorders which occurred in Amsterdam within the last few days. From The Hague came a report of the arrest of a leather merchant and several other persons for "a provocative attitude toward German soldiers."

De Valera Warns People

Prime Minister Of Eire Expects Country To Be Attacked

New York.—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera warned the people of neutral Eire that war is near, and said in a broadcast that compulsory evacuation of Dublin will be resorted to should voluntary evacuation prove insufficient.

A summary of Mr. de Valera's address, as broadcast by the Irish Broadcasting Corporation and heard by Columbia Broadcasting system here, said the prime minister warned that "the first attack on us would be our capital."

Mr. de Valera said that already 200,000 men of the population of 3,000,000 had responded to the governments' appeal for volunteers to the Irish army.

Designed Canada's Memorial

Farnborough, Kent, Eng.—Edward March, one of the seven gifted brothers who designed Canada's Great War memorial at Ottawa, is dead. He was the elder of the accomplished septette who were architects of the imposing statue unveiled in the Dominion's capital in 1939.

Federal Contributions For Direct Relief Are To Be Discontinued

Ottawa.—Dominion contributions for direct relief will be discontinued March 31, Labor Minister McLarty announced.

On the present basis of a 40 per cent. contribution by the Dominion 40 per cent. by the provinces and 20 per cent. by the municipalities, it is estimated direct relief in the fiscal year 1941-42 would cost the Dominion government $7,000,000 as against an actual outlay of $13,200,000 in the present fiscal year, the minister told a press conference.

Relief rolls had been so reduced, however, that the estimated expenditure in bearing the whole cost would be $2,800,000 less in 1941-42 than they were in the fiscal year ending next March 31, with the Dominion making its contribution.

"The provinces have repeatedly pledged their desire to co-operate with the Dominion in matters essential to the prosecution of the war," said a prepared statement issued by the minister.

"In the opinion of the government this co-operation can be extended and he extremely helpful if each of the provinces assumes the responsibility of such unemployment aid as may be necessary in the coming year."

Immense Dominion expenditures for war purposes and on social services in other ways, coupled with a shrinkage in the number of unemployed due to war activities, were given by Mr. McLarty as reasons for the step which will bring to an end 10 years of participation by the Dominion in relief for unemployment and agricultural distress.

The system of Dominion contributions to unemployment relief started in 1930 and while changes occurred from time to time Dominion grants were paid each year to assist provinces and municipalities in supporting people who were unable to obtain work or were otherwise unable to obtain a living.

Dominion government expenditure since 1930 amounts to a total of about $400,000,000. At one time during the depression more than 1,000,000 persons were dependent on relief to which the Dominion was contributing.

From the first the contributions were made on the principle that the relief of unemployment was primarily the responsibility of the municipalities, secondly that of the provincial governments and only in the last resort that of the Dominion. Dominion contributions were made when it was recognized unemployment had become a national problem and the relief had reached a volume beyond the capacity of the municipalities and the provinces.

Purpose of the change is to "direct the automobile industry in the highly important and successful war production on which the industry is engaged, and to safeguard that war production against civilian demands for automobiles."

Prohibition of imports was established last December as a means of conserving foreign exchange and it was then hoped that any further control would be unnecessary.

"That prohibition," the statement said, "in addition to imposing hardships, probably greater on the whole in the automobile business than in other businesses affected by the act, has also had the effect of leading some companies to consider setting up manufacturing facilities in Canada under conditions which cannot permit of economical production and at a time when machine tools and labor for tooling plants are extremely scarce."

"Quotas will be set up for each succeeding quarter after investigation by the controller and the department of national revenue but it is not anticipated subsequent quotas will differ greatly from the initial one except as the pressure of war work requires further restriction of the provision of new motor cars for civilian use."

Chicago Daily News: We remember when the worst that could happen to an ocean liner was being stood on end to compare with the Empire State Building.

MANY PENSIONERS HELP WAR CAUSE

Nine more veterans of the Great War have added their names to the growing list of pensioners making monthly free-will contributions to Canada's War Fund. The contributions range from $5 to $37.50 per month. One pensioner, resident in Toledo, Ohio, returns his total pension received since August, 1940. Students in schools, small communities, societies and clubs all join in offerings to the war fund. An Indian away in North West Territories, sends $10. From Almirante, Panama, come $500 in American funds. Instead of making Christmas gifts, pupils in Room 28, Herchmer school, Regina, forward $225. A resident of Dugald, Manitoba, contributes a five-dollar gold piece, gift of a golden wedding anniversary. A schoolboy in Great Falls, Manitoba, gives a dollar won at school for reciting. An anonymous gift of $3,000 represents "profits made by a company." Well-wishers across the Dominion and scattered over the United States add their contributions.

Brubaker in the New Yorker: The price of admission to this war is too staggering to contemplate. It will cost us at least $25,000,000,000 just to stay out.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

CONCERNING the War Savings Campaign, Coleman will have to engage in energetic work to catch up to Blairmore. The first campaign there started in June 1940, and to the end of January there was sold through the pay-roll plan a total of $9,100 worth of certificates. In addition there were sold over the counter $3,700, at other places in town, making a total of $12,800 for the first campaign. W. H. Chappell, who has been very energetic in promoting the pay-roll plan, states: "While these figures look very satisfactory, I felt, along with others, that we were not near the possible limit yet and so made an extra effort to increase existing pledges and open up new pledges for the start of the second campaign. While figures are not yet available covering the totals, we have sufficient information on hand to lead us to believe that we shall increase our pay-roll savings by 100%."

COLEMAN with a larger pay-roll than Blairmore, should make a better showing that it has so far. With the campaign now under way, for which credit must be given those who unselfishly volunteer their services, much better results are looked for. Of course, there will be a percentage of shirkers and also some who through sheer force of circumstances are unable to purchase, but these should be very few, for the war has taken thousands of relief rolls and unemployment has decreased. We must do by voluntary effort more than dictators can achieve by compulsion in order to win the war.

NO LASTING benefits can be obtained by intimidation, coercion or force. Temporary advantage may be gained, but the yoke of oppression is ultimately thrown off. It applies to nations, it applies to organizations which endeavor by a policy of intimidation to subdue opposition. Only spineless creatures submit to this policy; free-thinking men will stand up for their individual rights. Our governments are based on democratic ideals, and though there may be weaknesses which autocrats and dictators may take advantage of, yet experience has proved that happiness and contentment can best be obtained by maintaining those ideals which have been won through centuries of progress. Any cause that has to be bolstered up by force or intimidation cannot endure, for eventually people overthrow it in their struggle for freedom.

IT IS hoped that provision will be made for road maintenance and also the building of more sidewalks in town. Considering the age of the town and the amount collected in taxes, there should be a steady program of development. Instead, we have very little sidewalk, in fact none outside of the business area, which are sadly in need of repair. The makeshift sidewalks which were laid in residential sections are fast deteriorating, not being of permanent nature, and taxes are such that improvements of this nature should be made. With lessening of relief costs, more money should be available for work of this nature. Another improvement needed for years is adequate lighting of Main street. For a town of its size it certainly is a dull looking place and though we who live here have become accustomed to groping around in semi-darkness, to the person passing through or a visitor, the business area at night looks very seedy. It looks as if we were so afraid of people looking at it too closely that we get along with as little light as possible. The only way we can make a town of which we will feel proud is by our own efforts. Why should a coal mining town look that way? There is a bigger payroll and far more money in circulation than towns a quarter of the size yet which present a far more attractive appearance.

PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S words re-echoed around the world. Friend and foe heard them. They brought encouragement to the people of the British Commonwealth, and to the enemy the determination of the peoples of the whole Empire that they will see this thing through to a finish. There will be no negotiated peace, for that would leave the way open for further trouble. There can only be one end—a vanquished Germany and the liberation of oppressed European nations. Nazism and free government cannot work together, any more than the United States could exist half slave and half free.

WHAT are we doing to help win the war? We will pay increased taxes, contribute to war charities, unless we are downright shirkers (and there are some in that category) buy war savings certificates as a matter of self preservation and not from any charitable motives, and do all we can by deeds than by blarney shouts of patriotism. It's an "all out" war in which civilians must bear their share of responsibility. No matter what we do in Canada, it is mighty little in comparison to the sacrifices and suffering of the people of Britain. They take it with their chins up. We have seen people who drop theirs when asked to give a dollar to a war charity. There is no compulsion in our war effort; men are free to enlist or stay at home; people may give or they may not; but every decent person who realizes that this is his war as well as Great Britain's will come forward cheerfully and give to the limit.

REMEMBER this when you are called on by volunteer workers asking you to pledge part of your weekly or monthly income to purchase war savings certificates—they are not doing it because they have time to spare to run around calling on people; they are doing it because they realize it's a job that's got to be done, and they are volunteering their service in a national effort to raise money to help pay for Canada's war cost. Also remember that you are not giving away money. It may pinch a little in some directions to buy a war savings certificate each month, but in making some small sacrifice today you are making provision for a better tomorrow.

THE way in which free publicity has been flowing into newspaper offices shows that there is a terrible lot of wasted effort. There simply isn't time to even look at it, let alone read it, with the result that most of it goes into the ash can unread, unwept and unprinted, of course. It clutters up the mails, causes a lot of unnecessary work at a time when we need to conserve our energy for the war effort, and generally speaking is nothing but a damned nuisance. If the people who prepare this material could see waste paper baskets of newspaper offices, it would most convincingly demonstrate to them that their time could be far more usefully employed.

He is an accomplished pianist, has taken a post-graduate course in radio engineering, specialized in sound and given four earnest years of his young life to broadcasting. He is stationed at CBR, Vancouver, where he is one of the best-liked and most versatile members of the staff.

In January, 1939, he joined the CBR at Vancouver as announcer and gave the recorded programs for which he was responsible every thing he had. Reward: just a year ago he was transferred into the production department where all the things he learned along the way are now helping him to make his mark.

In addition to his absorption in music and sound-engineering, Stan has found time to explore the delights of writing for radio and the magazine field. Under the name of David S. Coleman he wrote several verse dramas for the air, and his other verse and prose compositions have been numerous. Under his direction an experimental series of verse-speaking choirs, "Voices and Verse," was presented by the CBC.

The story relates the amusing adventures of an American Dutchman who returns to his native land and falls in love with Hulda, who is already betrothed according to Dutch custom to Jan Steen, an aesthetic artist whom she does not love.

The untangling of these complications affords ample opportunity for splendid choruses, dances and sparkling dialogue.

Theatre Notes

"R.N.W. Mounted Police"

No organization anywhere has made a more vivid appeal to the imagination than the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The red-coated troops who "get their man" have marched ceaselessly to play again and again their heroic parts in Canada's destiny.

Organized in 1873 and numbering 150 gallant men, their duties were to crush all Indian Warfare; stamp out unlawfulness inherent in every frontier country; maintain law and order in Canada—one of the largest countries in the world! What a task it was! But like the members of all gallant organizations, these men performed their duties unflinchingly, and died to maintain the Right! The men of the Force have commemorated themselves in Peace and War!

So it is with real appreciation what the Royal Canadian Mounted Police stands for, what it has achieved in the past, what it is doing now, and what it will accomplish for Canada in the future that we all say, "All Honor to the Force."

Shown in glorious technicolor! 10 great stars! 2 glorious love stories! 1000 unforgettable adventures and thrills! Made for the finest form of entertainment ever witnessed! A picture for all Canadians to see with our own eyes! Showing at Cole's Bellevue, Saturday-Monday-Tuesday, Feb. 22-24-25.

"Knutie Rockne"

The real story of the greatest of all football coaches—simple, lovable and thrilling as he really was! The man who set such high standards of courage, loyalty and true sportsmanship, that today, every youth attempts to attain these high ideals! Knutie Rockne in setting these standards, started the "character-building" of a Nation! He is immortal—a bulwark to the field of Sport!

Come and live again the unforgettable moments when this "miracle man" moulded men into the finest football teams of all time! Put the fight in the "Fighting Irish" and the kick in the football! ably portrayed for your entertainment and enjoyment, by Pat O'Brien, and showing at the Palace, Tues.-Wed., Feb. 25-26. "Untamed"

Two strong men—a firebrand of a woman from the city, untamed! They fought the Wrath of the Silent North for the right to live. She fought for the only right she claimed—the right to love! Pictured in amazing technicolor and supported by Ray Milland, Patricia Morison, Akim Tamiroff, it keeps all deeply interested throughout its fine performance.

Just a line to let you know that I'm keeping Coleman's end up down here.

Reg. forwards me The Journal every week and I certainly appreciate hearing of old friends and their doings. Am working in the Hawker Hurricane plant here turning out the under carriages for the planes. I am in the lathe end of it and its interesting work. I work 11½ hours a day including Sundays so Coleman was a soft spot compared to this.

See all the pro. hockey and its a real thrill I can assure you. Spoke to Joe Fisher on the Detroit team the other day and I gave him all the news of Coleman. He's having a good season.

I'm living in the only English section of Montreal and believe me it's French from end to the other. I'm learning to talk with my hands.

Hope Coleman wins the Intermediate championship but they are off to a bad start. We'll pull for them down here. Regards to everybody and keep The Journal coming.

Sincerely,

Wyndham Jones

FOODS VARY in the amount of energy they provide. Today bread is viewed as the best source of human fuel... and it actually supplies Canadians with one-fourth of their food energy! Is largely responsible for their high health record.

Bread is rich in carbohydrates. Made with milk, as is customary today, bread is also an important source of protein, equal to meat in maintaining muscular energy.

Yes! EVERY CANADIAN FAMILY
Must Pledge and Sacrifice...

"THIS TIME we are ALL in the front line."—H.M. THE KING.

FALL IN! The line is forming. Close the ranks. Answer His Majesty's call. Every man, woman and child in Canada has a duty to perform. Some will fight. You, too, have a job to do. It may demand sacrifice. You are called on to help furnish the munitions needed to win the war... guns and tanks for the army... planes for the air force... ships for the navy and merchant marine. Guns and tanks and planes and ships cost money. You are not asked to give—you are only asked to LEND your money. This is something you can do... something you must do.

There is only one place to get the money Canada needs to win this war—from the people of Canada. A large part will come from business firms and people with large incomes. They will pay high taxes and buy heavily of War Loan Bonds. But more money is needed... a great deal more. $10,000,000 a month is expected from men, women and children who invest in War Savings Certificates.

Work hard. Earn more. Save all you can and lend your savings to Canada. BUY WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES. Budget to buy them regularly. Buy them every week... every month... as long as the war lasts. You will be forming a good habit... the saving habit... a habit that will benefit you when victory is won. You will be doing a real job in helping to win the war.

For Each $4.00 You Get Back $5.00

$ 5.00 for $ 4.00	$10.00 for $ 8.00
$25.00 for $20.00	$50.00 for $40.00
$100.00 for $80.00

War Savings Certificates are a direct obligation of the Dominion of Canada, repayable in 7½ years. At the end of that time your investment will have increased twenty-five per cent, which represents interest at 3% compounded half-yearly.

They may be redeemed at option of registered owner, after six months from date of issue at an established scale of values.

The following table represents an average basis of saving. These figures are only illustrative, as the amount of saving which is possible will vary according to each individual's family and other economic circumstances.

JESUS CALLS TO PRAYER

Golden text: Lord, teach us to pray. Luke 11:1.

Lesson: Luke 18.

Devotional reading: Isaiah 62:1-7.

Explanations and Comments

Men Ought Always to Pray and not to Faint, Luke 18:1-8. And he spake a parable unto them to the end that they ought always to pray and not to faint. Recall our lesson about three months ago which also stressed persistence in prayer, about the man who came to a friend's house at midnight and by his importunity obtained what he needed. Dr. Jowett suggests that the counsel that men ought always to pray and not to faint should be turned into a promise; men ought always to pray and they will not faint. "When a man faints in the day of adversity it is because a line of communication has somehow been cut, and he has lost touch with his base of supplies. He has become separated from his spiritual resources, and in the heavy demands of the campaign he has begun to lose heart. The heart retains its hope and courage as long as new forces and new supplies arrive. Now it is prayer which keeps open the road between the soul and its resources."

Prayer Should Be Humble And Sincere, Luke 18:9-14. Jesus now turns in thought to those who trusted in themselves that they were righteous and in their pride of self-satisfied attainment set all others at naught. To them Jesus gives another parable, or rather, more strictly speaking, an imaginary incident. A Pharisee and a publican went up into the temple to pray at one of the regular hours for prayer.

Standing in a conspicuous place (Mt. 6:5), the Pharisee recalled his virtues to God's attention; unlike others, even this publican, he was not an extortioner, nor unjust, nor an adulterer; he fasted twice in the week (the law required only one fast a year, Lev. 16:29, but many Jews fasted every Monday and Thursday); and he tithed all that he had (the law requires only a tithing of farm products; the fruits of the field and of the cattle). The Pharisee's fault was that of self-complacency and of contempt of others, which a Pharisee of recent years paralleled in his prayer, "O Lord, the more I see of other people the more I like myself." In contrast to the Pharisee, the publican stood afar off smiting his breast and crying, "God, be merciful to me a sinner."

Coal production in Saskatchewan for the third quarter of 1940 totalled 122,532 tons. Practically all the coal mined in Saskatchewan is in the Estevan district, and is of a lignite variety.

Another Clever Dog

Knows Difference In Sound Between Bombs And AA Guns

A dog that can "hear a bomb leave" when an enemy plane is flying overhead is boasted by an English friend of a Galt, Ont., resident, in a letter telling of her air raid experiences. The dog, she says, pays no attention to AA fire or roaring planes, but all of a sudden he "gets up and scoots under a large heavy table in the hall. I go after him. He is never wrong. When the bomb lands we calmly emerge, pick up the knitting by the fire and carry on till the next time."

Professor Demonstrates Methods Of Dissipating Fog Over Airports

Two artificial means of dissipating fog above airports have been developed by Dr. Sverre Pettersen, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dr. Pettersen said a system whereby the airport was heated has been successful in clearing fog from the runways by evaporation.

The second experiment was to spray a solution of sulphur chloride into the fog above the airport. An area 150 feet wide, 30 feet in height and 1,500 feet long, was cleared by this method, he said.

Real Strength Of Britain

Is To Be Found In Homes Of The Common People

It is the Man in the Street who is fighting Britain's war. A distinguished American visitor, with all government doors opened to him by magic, can do his fact-finding at Whitehall and Downing Street and in the grim defences of "Jell's Corner" on the Channel coast. But it is behind humbler doors that the real strength of Britain lies. The measure of English courage must be taken in the bomb's shelters, and the corner stores, and among the free-speaking patrons of the pubs. New York Times.

THE MARQUIS OF LORNE, K.T., G.C.M.G.
GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF CANADA, 1878-1893

60 YEARS AGO

A Charter was signed

On February 15, 1881, the Marquis of Lorne, then Governor-General of Canada, signed the charter of the Canadian Pacific Railway. That signature consummated the vision of great Canadian statesmen—Sir John A. Macdonald, D'Arcy McGee, Sir Georges-Etienne Cartier, and Sir Charles Tupper—that the new Dominion of Canada should be linked from Atlantic to Pacific by a trans-continental railway—and implemented the pledge under which British Columbia entered Confederation.

So began a new era in Canadian unity . . . and Empire solidarity . . . for the Railway expanded into a system spanning two oceans and linking three continents. Today—as in 1914-18—a proud responsibility rests on our transportation and communication systems—railway, steamships, freight, express, telegraphs and engineering shops. Canadian Pacific officers and employees everywhere are co-operating—each in his own field—towards the common goal . . . VICTORY. When that goal is reached—and it will be reached—this will be due, in no small measure, to Canada's contribution, and to the vision and foresight of the men who, sixty years ago, planned the construction of the first Canadian trans-continental railway.

CHAPTER VII.

The Monday morning street car seemed a little less crowded than usual. Nancy Thorne found a seat in the corner and huddled there, staring out the window with uneasing eyes.

Through the long afternoon and night one thought had run through her mind like the chorus of a song. She was alone now. There was no one she could trust. It had seemed to her as though impenetrable walls had sprung up between her and the people she loved most.

She held back the threatened tears with a heroic effort. No use in making a spectacle of herself on the street car. Holding her chin high she took out her compact and powdered her nose and brushed back her coppery hair, with a convincing air of calm.

The situation had to be faced, that was all. Tom was in this terrible thing, and so was Pat. No matter what her own feelings might be, she couldn't give them away. She'd have to manage some excuse to Hugo Blake for not doing his work. Maybe she could leave the Bristow plant and go away. A dozen projects, all impractical, ran through her mind.

A passenger getting off the street car left his folded newspaper in the seat beside Nancy, and she picked it up and glanced at it aimlessly.

"STUDENT AND INSTRUCTOR ESCAPE DEATH IN CRASH"

The black headline was like a blow. Quickly she glanced through the rest of the story. There were few details given, only that no cause had been assigned to the accident, and that by some miracle the instructor and student pilot had escaped with minor injuries.

Tom had said—"a lot of unexplained accidents—"

Pat had said—"There's nothing I wouldn't do for money—"

Tom had said—"You're in this up to your neck—"

She closed her eyes and saw that tiny training ship as they had seen it yesterday, circling so gracefully against the sky. She remembered groups of student pilots as they had seen them, their bronzed smiling faces looking into the sun.

By the time the street car came to a clanging stop before the John Bristow Die-Casting Company, she knew she must keep to her resolve, regardless of what it might do to Pat or to Tom Cantwell.

She climbed wearily up the concrete and iron stairs, punched her card on the time clock and placed it in the rack, and went to her desk.

It was a little before 8, and the other office girls were congregated in small groups, laughing and chatting of the week end before they had spent. One or two of them glanced at Nancy, nodded briefly, looked away again. Annie Burke, with her bright, gamine face, did come up to a cheery greeting, but then the 8 o'clock bell rang and work began.

"Good morning, Miss Ellis."

She looked up. John Bristow, his round, ruddy face beaming, was looking down at her. It seemed odd, having him call her by her assumed name.

"Oh—good morning, Mr. Bristow." "I haven't seen you since you started work here. How do you like it?"

She smiled at him. "I like it fine."

"That's good. I hope you get along splendidly."

He nodded to her, spoke to several of the other girls in the same friendly fashion, and went in to Grimshaw's office. For just an instant Nancy felt faintly hurt at his cool impersonality. In the next instant she realized that he was being tactful and in her heart she thanked him for it. She was unpopular enough now with the other girls without the added disadvantage of being a favorite of the boss.

The office finally hummed with work, with the added impetus of the big boss himself being on the premises. Nancy's fingers fairly flew over the keyboard as she tried to keep up with the work Miss Fletcher piled on her desk, realizing as she did so that the added work was being given her in an attempt to make it appear she was getting behind.

"Get those copied in a hurry—they want them downstairs."

A rush back to the typewriter. "Take those reports into Mr. Grimshaw as soon as you have them done. He wants them right away." She finished the last one in a breathless rush, gathered them together and knocked at the door of Mr. Grimshaw's office. Through the glass she saw him nod to her to come in, and opened the door.

"...at least the attacks on our trucks have stopped," John Bristow was saying as she entered. "That takes a load off my mind."

"Just put those on the desk, Miss Ellis," the office manager said crisply. He went on talking to John Bristow. "There probably won't be any more attempts. This place is entirely too well protected."

Nancy stole a look at him as she laid the reports in a wire basket before him. He seemed to look ill, very ill. Frightened, too.

"That's what I think," Bristow said. "Now about this other business—"

That was all she heard before the door closed behind her.

"These orders have to be copied quickly, Miss Ellis. All of them have to be with before noon." It was Madge Fletcher again.

Nancy nodded and started back to work, her mind filled with what she had overheard. The attacks on the trucks had ceased, John Bristow said. He believed it was because the protection was so great.

Hugo Blake had said something about new methods—nothing as crude as overturning a truck filled with valuable dies and patterns. That was why the attacks on the trucks had ceased. There was some new, more frightful way. She wished with all her heart that she could warn the friendly, white-haired man who believed his plant was safe.

"Finished with those," Miss Ellis? She shook her head. "Almost. I'll be done in a few minutes."

"Well, finish them before you go to lunch, and leave them on my desk."

Five minutes after 12. Ten minutes, 15 minutes, 20 minutes past and finally the last one was done. She made a quick check-up for possible errors, found none, and laid the orders in a neat pile on Madge Fletcher's desk. Her head was fairly whirling, her fingers still tingled.

Mr. Grimshaw, she noticed, had not left his office. She could see him through the glass door, still sitting at his desk, his head in his hands. She wondered if she ought to go in and ask if she might do anything for him. No, perhaps it would be better to leave him alone. Since that morning when he had seemed to be warning her to leave her job, he had appeared to avoid her.

She went slowly down the stairs to the lunchroom, now almost deserted. Hugo Blake stood by the door, evidently he had been waiting for her to come down.

"You're late."

She nodded. "I had some extra work to do."

Oh, Well, I have some extra work for you too."

He smiled down at her, his round face friendly, his sharp little eyes beaming at her from behind the thick-lensed glasses. Nancy managed to smile back.

"That's good. When?"

"Tonight. Will you be home?"

She nodded.

"Good. I'll telephone you. I want to talk to you tonight—I have something very important for you to do."

He smiled once more and left her, going on up the stairs.

She went on into the lunchroom and ordered a glass of milk, too exhausted with work and anxiety to think of food. She sat in the almost empty room sipping the milk slowly, trying to make some order out of the chaos of her thoughts.

Hugo Blake had said something important for her to do. That might mean she could learn something important something she could take to John Bristow as evidence. That was the thing she must do, no matter who it involved. With that accomplished perhaps she could leave here, find a job in some new place. Not that it mattered very much to her what happened now.

She went on back to the office wearily. At the door Tom Cantwell passed her, going in the direction of the machine shops. He barley noticed her, his lean face looked angry, almost pale. She wondered if any chance he could have learned what she planned to do. Well, that didn't matter now either.

It was a minute past 1 when she entered the big office already busy and noisy. The clatter of typewriters and rattle of papers seemed to slacken for a moment as she stepped in the door, was was conscious of Madge Fletcher stopping what she was doing to look slowly and deliberately at her, up at the clock, and back at her face. Not a word was said, but several other pairs of eyes followed those of the head stenographer.

Her cheeks burning, Nancy sat down at her desk.

"Another set of reports, Miss Ellis. Hurry them, please—Mr. Grimshaw wants them as soon as possible."

Nancy nodded. Again fingers flew against time. Not as rapidly now, however. The morning's activity had drained her of strength.

"You're finally finished? Take them to Mr. Grimshaw."

If she hadn't been late with the reports, Nancy thought a little recently, she wouldn't have been asked to deliver them to the office manager.

She opened the door of the inner office and walked in. Mr. Grimshaw stood at his desk, but now he had buried his face in his arms.

She wondered what she ought to do. If he were asleep, he might resent being waked just to be told that the reports were finished. Or, if there was really an unusual hurry for the work, he might not like it if he weren't waked.

"Mr. Grimshaw—"

There was no response to her timid voice. She laid the pile of reports in the wire basket, hesitated a moment and then tried again, louder.

"Mr. Grimshaw—"

Then she screamed. On Grimshaw's head was a dark red stain.

Comforts For Forces Abroad

Special Parcel Post Rates Extended To All H.M. Forces Serving Overseas

Postmaster General William P. Mulock further facilities the sending of comforts to our Forces abroad. Through arrangements with the British Postal authorities, all H.M. Forces' forces serving overseas will now benefit from the special reduced rate of 12 cents a pound (weight limit 11 pounds) on parcels mailed to them from Canada, according to an announcement from the Postmaster General.

The low rate of 12 cents a pound (limit of weight 11 pounds) applies now on parcels for overseas mailed from Canada addressed to the following:

Members of British, Canadian, Dominion or other Colonial troops serving in the United Kingdom or in places outside the United Kingdom.

Members of the official Auxiliary Services in the United Kingdom.

Members of the Forces of General de Gaulle serving with the British Forces in the United Kingdom.

Members of Belgian, Polish and other Allied Forces serving with the British Forces in the United Kingdom.

Members of the Canadian Army on duty in Iceland.

Members of the Canadian Army on duty in the West Indies (Limit 20 pounds).

Personnel of H.M. ships and H.M.C. ships abroad.

Note: The rate on parcels to members of the Canadian Army on duty in Newfoundland is 10 cents a pound (Limit 20 pounds).

Nurses attached to units of the above Forces are classed in the same category as soldiers for postal purposes and are entitled to the respective special parcel post rate.

CHARACTER

When the late J. P. Morgan was asked what he considered the best bank collateral, he replied, "Character."—Ramsey MacDonald.

Character is the result of two things: Mental attitude and the way we spend our time.—Elbert Hubbard.

A good character is, in all cases, the fruit of personal exertion.—Joel Hawes.

As in the floral kingdom odors emit characteristics of tree and flower, a perfume or a poison, so the human character comes forth a blessing or a bane upon individuals and society.—Mary Baker Eddy.

To be worth anything, character must be capable of standing firm upon its feet in the world of daily work, temptation, and trial; and able to bear the wear and tear of actual life.—Smiles.

All Have Contributed

But Some Indian Princes And Chiefs Are Not Wealthy

The London Evening News says: Not all the Chiefs of States in India are wealthy, nor even all the Maharajahs; yet by this time I think every prince and princeling, great or small, has contributed in some form to the Viceroy's War Purpose Fund.

I hear of a gift from the Chief of a Western India state who is known to be very far from rich. He has sent 180 rupees; he suggests that the Rs 100 will buy a rifle, complete with bayonet, and that Rs 80 will pay for 1,000 rounds of ammunition.

He gave the rifle and bayonet, his subjects the ammunition.

It is a contrast to the gift of the Nizam of Hyderabad and his subjects, which now amounts to £290,000 for the R.A.F.

The eight-hour working day was inaugurated in Germany by regulations passed in 1918 and 1919.

Laboratories and their scientific control of oil-well drilling are moving directly to the oil fields.

Prizes His Freedom

Son Of German Exile Escaped Being A Hitler Barbarian

A Harvard sophomore who said he once was close enough to Adolf Hitler to call him "Uncle Adolph," declared that he was joining the United States Army to "help defend the way of life that is directly opposed to the ideologies of Hitler and his shirted gangsters."

He is Egon L. S. Hanfstaengl, son of the now exiled Dr. Ernest Hanfstaengl, former Nazi press chief. He celebrated his twelfth birthday on leaving for Alabama, eventually to become a cadet in the Army air service.

"If I hadn't been accepted by this country," said young Hanfstaengl, who is a native American and a citizen. "I would have tried to get in the Royal Air Force. While I realize that this country's measures are all preventive, I believe we will eventually slide into the war in some way, and I want to be ready."

The six-footer, who spent five years in the Hitler youth movement while his father was a confidant and adviser of the Reichsfuehrer, said in an interview he finally felt "purged of the ideas which were on the way to making me a Hitler barbarian—and I feel well."

"It's wonderful," he grinned, "to be living in a country where you can sit on a park bench and read Heine and other authors barred by Nazis."

He said it would be ironic if he ever became an air pilot engaged against Germany because "when I was a youngster living in Germany Marshal Goering congratulated me on my marksmanship and said 'I'd make a fine soldier.'"

"If I ever did," he said, "I'd be a good one to bomb Munich because I know the place so well. I'd bomb everything but the art galleries, the churches and the breweries. No, on second thought, I would bomb the breweries, because if there's anything to make the people of Munich revolt, it would be to deprive them of their daily liter of beer."

To Keep Britons Warm

Industrial Waste Product Is Being Made Into Blankets

An industrial waste product is being put to a new use in keeping many a Briton warm and dry during stretches in an air-raid shelter. In the last two months the Maple Leaf Fund, Inc., Canadian-United States relief organization in New York, has sent close to 8,000 giant (90 by 72 inches) pure wool blankets to England. A $1 contribution sends one blanket. The fund plans to send a minimum of 50,000 blankets this year.

How this is possible is explained by the organization's officers. Victor Goggin, a civil engineer. The cloth from which the blankets are made is a waste product of the cardboard industry and is contributed by about 100 member firms of the United States National Paper Board Association.

In the making of cardboard, Goggin said, pulp is mixed with water and spread over a screen, through which water drains off. The soft, wet pulp sheets must then be picked up by run through rollers. Manufacturers have found that the most successful material for picking up the sheet-pulp is a 100 per cent. pure woolen material with a rough nap. Because the material must be subjected to great strains and immersed in water of all temperatures, wool that is used costs as much as $14 a pound and the cloth must be immaculately woven, Goggin said.

Scientists have discovered that by doubling the amount of chlorine added to drinking water the chlorine taste disappears and the water then tastes quite pure and fresh.

The cash income from the sale of Canadian farm products in 1940 is estimated at $174,700,000 compared with $702,800,000 in 1939.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

Buck it up right now and feel like a million!

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, supplies new energy, allows proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, sluggish and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "rotten"—headache, backache, dizziness, dragged out all the time. For over 35 years thousands have been promptly relieved from these miseries—with Fruit-A-Tives. So can you now. Try Fruit-A-Tives—you'll be simply delighted how quickly you'll feel like a new person. Happy and well again. 25c, 50c.

Ten Year Old Boy Writes to Relatives About War

States Hitler Should Be Good At Repairing Factories; Food Plentiful; "Thumbs Up" Good Times Ahead.

A Coleman lady received a letter from her ten-year-old nephew telling about war conditions in his particular part of the British Isles.

"Just before Christmas Hitler sent his aeroplanes over to try and frighten us, as you know (Manchester, etc.) he managed to knock a few buildings down, but as for our spirits, it's just as if he were trying to knock a tank over with moth balls. Our B.A.F. have been over Germany in return for his raids over here, and they are knocking the stuffing out of his oil refineries, goods, yards and docks, in fact he ought to be quite good at repairing factories, etc., because every time he repairs them we knock them down again.

As for the navy, it's doing grand work and is giving back more than it gets. Our new army is growing in strength and when we meet the German army next time we will give them such a blitz that they will think a tornado has hit them.

In the east we are taking Mussolini's African empire from him and he's not able to do much at present to stop us. In Libya for instance we are sweeping forward in a series of brilliant successes, and in Italian Eritrea, the Abyssinians are rising in revolt. In fact there is only going to be two hits in the campaign. One, us hitting him, two, him hitting the floor.

We are going to show Hitler and Muss. that we can lick both of them. As for food, we have plenty of it. We want you "over there" to work your hardest at munitions, etc. The harder you work at munitions the sooner the war will be over.

We have just started on a severe winter like the last one. The snow is fairly deep, with more to come, but we have good times to look forward to so thumbs up and cheerio to everybody."

"Cheer up, old chap. No news is good news."

In Memoriam

DENHOLM—In Loving Memory of my dear husband, John Denholm, who died February 24, 1939, aged 69 years.

The rolling stream of life goes by
And still the vacant chair recalls the love,
The voice, the smile of him who who once sat there.

But resting where no shadows fall
In perfect peace he awaits us all.

Ever remembered by his loving wife, two sons, James and David, and grandson, John.
